Member of Board of Education In Chicago Plans New Method of Settling Disputes

Action Follows Roar Over Woman Teacher Refereeing Bout of Angry Youngsters

(By Associated Press)

Chicago, Oct. 30.—Plans to put a set of boxing gloves in every Chicago school for the use of pupils in settling their disputes are being made by George B. Arnold, chairman of the finance committee of the Board of Education.

Mr. Arnold announced his plan today in answer to critics of Mrs. Alice M. Hogg, principal of the Webster School, who refereed a bout between two of her pupils.

He said as far as he was concerned the efforts of attorneys for Mrs. Rose Selen to have Miss Hogg discharged because she permitted the battle would prove of no avail. Mrs. Selen's son, Abe, was defeated in the scrap by Salvatore Sortino.

"Boxing in the schools ought to be encouraged," said Mr. Arnold.

Ohio State and Chicago University in Football Classic

Weather Ideal and Maroons Have Advantage

(By Associated Press)

Chicago, October 30.—For the first football contest between Ohio State and Chicago University, the weather man presented ideal football weather today. Approximately 2,000 Columbus students accompanied their team here.

Before the game, Ohio was a strong favorite, but neither team was in perfect condition. Hanisch and Williamson, the rival fullbacks, were both out of condition and neither was expected to take part.

The Maroons had worked all week to perfect a defense to stop the end runs and off tackle drives of Pete Stuchcomb, fleet Buckeye runner, and Harry Workman, the brilliant sophomore quarterback, who has been throwing forward passes for thirty to fifty yards all season. The Maroons had a little advantage in weight.

The Barde Brothers Steel Corporation of New York bid a flat $4,000,000 and the New Jersey Machinery Exchange bid $4,268,520. As the plant cost the government $70,000,000 when built during the war the bids were regarded as entirely inadequate.

Concrete Steamship Sinks Like A Stone When Hull Crushed

Was Cut Almost in Two By Liner City of Atlanta

(By Associated Press)

Providence, R. I., October 30.—A death list of 17 men was reported here today by survivors of the concrete steamer Cape Fear which went down in Narragansett Bay after collision off Newport last night with the Savannah liner, City of Atlanta.

Investigation of the manner in which the steamers came together and of the suddenness with which the concrete vessel went down was begun immediately.

The impact virtually crumpled her concrete hull to pieces, survivors said, chips being struck off in all directions much of it falling on the City of Atlanta's deck.

The bow of the latter struck the boat amidship cutting her almost in two. A few of the crew of the concrete steamer were caught below but most of them either were pulled aboard the City of Atlanta by ropes or jumped into the water.

Some of the latter were able to swim clear but others were caught in the suction of the sinking vessel.

The spot where the Cape Fear went down is 150 feet deep in the main ship channel to Newport. Search for bodies and wreckage was unsuccessful today.

REPUBLICAN VICTORY PREDICTED BY SULLIVAN

Famous National Political Observer Places Harding Electoral Vote at 352

COX MAXIMUM AT 179

Battle of Senate is Very Doubtful According to Expert

By Mark Sullivan.
(Copyright 1920)

PROBABLE COX VOTE ESTIMATED AT 179

Necessary to elect, 266. It will be observed that even if Cox should get all the states that he has even a faint chance of carrying, he would have only 5 more electoral votes than enough to win. But the assumption that Cox can carry every one of these states listed as probable Cox states would be foisting a miracle on the law of chance. As a matter of fact the largest number of electoral votes that Cox is seriously likely to get is 179. It might fall as low as 142.

Certain Cox States:

Virginia	12
Alabama	12
Georgia	14
North Carolina	12
South Carolina	9
Florida	6
Mississippi	10
Louisiana	10
Arkansas	9
Texas	20

Practically certain Cox states:

Tennessee	12
Very probable Cox states:
Oklahoma	10

Possibly Cox States (in the order named):

Utah	5
Kentucky	13
Maryland	8
Missouri	18
Arizona	3
Montana	4
New Mexico	3
Indiana	15
Ohio	24
West Virginia	8
Colorado	6
Nevada	3
Connecticut	7
Rhode Island	5
New Jersey	14

Total

Because it is the clearest manner of approach to the situation, let us begin with Cox's fortunes, and estimate how many electoral votes he is likely to get.

Cox will get without any doubt whatever, of course, ten of the traditional southern states, with their electoral votes, namely:

Virginia	12
Alabama	12
North Carolina	12
Mississippi	10
South Carolina	9
Louisiana	10
Florida	6
Arkansas	9
Georgia	14
Texas	20
Total	114

Here are 114 out of a total of 531 electoral votes which Cox is absolutely sure to start out with. Occasionally Republicans talk about carrying North Carolina, but there is nothing to it. The Republicans talked the same way in 1908 when Taft was running, and in that year did come within twenty-two thousand of carrying the state. They are not likely to do any better than that this year. Cox will get all these states and all these 114 electoral votes positively. This 114 votes is Cox minimum figure.

One other state Cox is almost equally sure to get. Tennessee has always been classed with the ten already named as a southern state and surely Democratic. I think it is probably so this year, but I am treating it separately merely because the Republicans are claiming that they can carry it.

This Republican claim is not mere campaign "big talk" but is based on an intelligent survey of conditions and intensive work. Nevertheless, I do not think they will carry Tennessee.

It is true, I have seen the best kind of evidence that a good many business men in Tennessee want a Republican victory and are willing to help toward it. But this business men's vote is hardly big enough to be a decisive factor. Moreover, the Republican workers in the enthusiasm of their new found hope to do an unprecedented thing were rather excessively zealous in getting the negro women to register. The result has been to create a reaction and to stiffen up the white Democratic opposition.

The Republicans still believe that if the white women voters of the eastern part of the state, which is the part where Republicans are strongest go to the polls and vote, they will win. The people of the eastern part of the state, largely mountaineers don't believe in women folks voting, and they have been hesitant about going to the polls.

If the Republican workers can succeed in getting these women to the polls, they will undoubtedly make a better showing than the Republican party has ever before made in Tennessee. Nevertheless I don't think the Republicans will carry that state.

Let us therefore, add Tennessee's 12 votes to the 114 we have already credited to Cox. This makes a total of 126.

We now come to the five so-called border States:

Kentucky	13
Maryland	8
Missouri	18
Oklahoma	10
West Virginia	8
Total	57

These border states are commonly closely contested and they will be as closely contested this year as any time before. In these states there is no sign whatever of the landslide which the Republicans are claiming elsewhere. In discussing these states with both the Democratic managers and Republican managers you rarely find one who will claim any of these states by more than a few thousand majority.

The Border States

Of these five border states I am inclined to think that Missouri and West Virginia are most likely to go Republican, leaving Oklahoma, Kentucky and Maryland likely to go Democratic. The degree of their likelihood to go Democratic is in the order named. I think Oklahoma is pretty surely to go Democratic, Kentucky a little less sure, and Maryland the least sure of the three.

Giving these three states to Cox we now have a total of 157.

We have now behind us all the states which are in any degree Southern or in any degree traditionally Democratic. From this point on we enter that three-fourths of the country which is either traditionally Republican or doubtful. In this section of the country there are nine states which Cox has some chance of carrying. Please mark that I put it that way—"Cox has some chance of carrying" them. I don't mean by any means to classify these states as probably Democratic. I merely say that Cox has some chance of carrying them and that they are the only states in the section we are considering that he has any chance of carrying. These 11 states, set down in the order of Cox's chances to carry them are as follows:

Utah	5
Arizona	4
Montana	4
New Mexico	3
Indiana	15
Ohio	24
Colorado	6
Nevada	3
Connecticut	7
Rhode Island	5
New Jersey	14
Total	88

If Cox should carry every one of these states, in addition to all that I have already given him he would then have a total of 245 electoral votes.

But it cannot be predicted that Cox will carry all these states. I have set these states down and this figure of 88 electoral votes down as the maximum he can get in the territory outside of the south and the outside of the border states.

Let us go back and assume that in these border states Cox should carry the two which I have given to Harding—namely, Missouri, with 18, and West Virginia with 8. On this assumption adding these 26 to the 243 already given we would have 271 electoral votes.

Cox has Possible Maximum of 271. This 271 electoral votes is the outside maximum that the most optimistic Democrat could possibly give

HARDING FAR AHEAD

Sullivan Says Sure Republican Electoral Votes Are Fully Double the Sure Democratic Ones.

Necessary to elect, 266. It will be observed that Harding has within thirteen of enough sure Republican electoral votes to give him the election. Cox would have to carry practically every one of the doubtful states in order to win. As a matter of fact, Harding is more likely to carry many of these doubtful states than Cox is. In making up the list of doubtful states I have included practically every state in which there is anything in the nature of a contest at all, every state which the Democrats have even the remotest chance of winning. All this is explained in the text, where will be found a much closer analysis than is attempted in this list.

COX STATES
Alabama	12
Georgia	14
Florida	6

to Cox. But I repeat that 271 is an outside maximum.

As I say, I give 271 as the outside figure of the number of votes that Cox can possibly get. To give him that number it is necessary to put as I have put it, in the lists of states which he has a bare chance of carrying in such states as New Jersey and Connecticut.

We now have 271 as the maximum number of electoral votes that Cox is likely to win, and 114 as the minimum number. He may get as many as 271 or he may get as few as 114. Within this maximum and minimum it takes pretty careful steering to try to make a guess—and within this figure it must be, to a certain degree, a matter of guessing—as to exactly what Cox's electoral vote is likely to be.

The best judgment I can arrive at is that Cox, in addition to the ten southern states and three of the border states, Oklahoma, Kentucky and Maryland, may also get Utah, Arizona, Montana, and New Mexico with a total of 14. This would give him a total of 171. He is more likely to fall below that go above this number. If he should go above this figure at all, it is most likely to be because of West Virginia. During the last few days of the campaign West Virginia has become an exceedingly doubtful state. It is one of the very few states in which the Democrats have dollar for dollar as much as the Republicans. If we give West Virginia to Cox that will make 179 and the outside number of electoral votes Cox is likely to get.

Victory Would be Two to One

Assuming that this number is approximately correct, let us consider just how "overwhelming" the Republican victory will be. If Cox gets 171 Harding will get 360. That is a trifle more than two to one, and two to one it must be confessed, is a rather overwhelming victory.

Let us now measure it in terms of the number of states carried. If Cox gets these 171 electoral votes he will have carried eighteen states and the Republicans will have carried thirty. This is a little more than one-third of the total number of states. It is not a great distance from the same proportion that I have already mentioned, two to one.

The Republicans frequently say that their victory is going to be overwhelming, and occasionally also that it is going to be unprecedented. When they say that their victory is going to be unprecedented, they mean by that that it will exceed Taft's victory over Bryan in 1908 and Roosevelt's victory over Parker in 1904. This last victory is the standard which the more hopeful Republicans have set themselves to excel. This defeat of Parker by Roosevelt in 1904, represented low water mark for the Democratic party. When the Republicans talk about exceeding it they must be very optimistic indeed.

Parker carried only thirteen states, with a total of 140 electoral votes. (There is this difference in the conditions between now and 1904—Oklahoma was not then a state. Also there has been a Congressional reapportionment in 1910, and this changes slightly the number of electoral votes in each state. It is just possible for the Republicans to hold Cox down to these same states that Parker carried.

Nebraska	8
Iowa	13

ried. If the Republicans should be able to do this, and in addition carry either Kentucky, Maryland or Tennessee, then they will have exceeded the Roosevelt victory over Parker of 1904. It is barely possible for the Republicans to do this, but I doubt it.

Possible Harding States

Now approaching it from the other end, on the basis of states likely to be carried by Harding it follows from what I have already said that the states which Harding is fairly sure to carry are:

Maine	6
Vermont	4
New Hampshire	4
Massachusetts	18
New York	45
Pennsylvania	38
Delaware	3
Michigan	15
Wisconsin	13
Illinois	29
Minnesota	12
North Dakota	5
South Dakota	5
Iowa	13
Nebraska	8
Kansas	10
Wyoming	3
Idaho	4
Washington	7
Oregon	5
California	13
Total	260

If there is any error in this list it is likely to be in respect to New Hampshire and Delaware.

The total electoral vote of these states, which I credit Harding states is 260. That is 6 less than enough to elect. I have set down in this list only the states which Harding seems practically certain of carrying.

I shall make no attempt to make predictions on the outcome in terms of the popular vote. This aspect is so complex that to enter into it at all would result in mere guesswork. The addition of women to the electorate in many states is an uncertain element. I have tried to find out the number of women who have registered in the various states, but it is not possible to do so. In many of the larger cities the number of women who have registered is known, but in rural districts and smaller towns the results have not been tabulated. Moreover in the rural parts of some states, like Kentucky, it is not necessary to register. Nothing definite can be said in terms of the popular vote. This element of the added women voters makes prediction this year exceptionally difficult. All comparisons with previous years are rendered obsolete.

It is not merely that the additional women voters makes the total uncertain. At best estimates of probable majorities in each state cannot be made with enough certainty to justify making them at all. Diligent investigation will make possible a certain amount of accuracy in predicting how a state will go, but a prediction as to the amount of the majority is a guess and nothing more.

For example just preceding the Maine election last September, I had letters from three of the four Republican congressmen in Maine, from one of the two Republican senators, and from both the Republican state chairman and the Republican national committeeman. No one of these believed that the Republican majority in Maine would be over 30,000. Ex-Gov. Cobb, who is considered the shrewdest man in Maine on matters of this kind, predicted 15,000. Mr. Parkhurst, who was himself running for governor, predicted the night before the election that he might have as much as 35,000 majority, but added that he didn't want to say so publicly for fear he would be laughed at. As a matter of fact, the Maine majority turned out to be not far from 70,000.

I cite this to prove that no amount of investigation and no amount of knowledge of the facts will enable any one to make a dependable prediction as to a majority in any state or as to the country as a whole. It is possible to predict with fair accuracy whereby a state will go Republican or Democratic; but beyond that it is not possible to go.

Also, one more thing frankly in the nature of avoidance. My inquiries into many of these states have taken place from a week to two weeks before the election. During those two weeks there has unquestionably been a drift to Cox, possibly sufficient to change the complexion of some states. I have tried to estimate the effect of this, but it is a most difficult thing to manage over so large a territory.

CIRCLEVILLE DEFEATED BY LOCAL ELEVEN

Two Undeclared Teams Stage Gruelling Contest Before Record Crowd.

Washington Runs Away With Circleville in Last Five Minutes and Scores Twice.

Two undefeated football teams met at East End Park Friday afternoon when Washington High and Circleville High clashed and at the end of fifty minutes of terrific football the Blue and White left the field, winners of the greatest game played here in years, by the decisive score of 19 to 0.

Until Circleville came to this city the big red eleven, coached by I. W. Davis, had not met defeat this season and last year was defeated but once. By taking the game Washington High scored its fifth consecutive victory of the season.

Close to two hundred rooters accompanied the Circleville team and made things lively on their side of the field with an assortment of tin horns. The gala colors of the two schools contrasted sharply, the Blue and White of the Washington fans and the Red and Black of the visitors.

Circleville kicked off to Washington but Jones' first attempt was off-sides and the two teams again lined up. Jones booted to Deen and the big fullback was downed on his thirty yard line. Lamb made three yards on first play through left tackle and on the next play Captain Rogers went through right tackle, side-stepped Jones, Circleville's colored halfback, who played a defensive quarter, and then raced half the length of the field for Washington's first touchdown. Flee kicked goal.

Minute after minute went by following that score with both teams fighting like college elevens. It was the consensus of opinion among the fans that two more finished high school teams never fought on local grounds. The period ended without further scoring and the half came to an end with Circleville making their best attempt to score when the whistle found them on Washington's five yard line.

Spectacular playing featured the third quarter. Tackles by Flee, Perrill and Thompson, in which they stopped the Circleville backs for a loss were frequent and the Circleville line after time held the Washington men for downs.

Johnnie Deen's passing clinched the game in the last few minutes of the last quarter when the Washington team rallied and by taking advantage of the breaks scored two touchdowns. From the ten yard line Deen passed to Flee and he went across by eluding Jones who made a futile attempt to tackle. Flee, after his hard run, missed the goal, the first one he has missed in ten attempts.

The next touchdown followed a minute later. Washington kicked off to Circleville and Flee's kick went across the line. Jones attempted to run it back and was downed in his tracks, just after crossing the line. His attempt to punt was high and went about twenty feet into Deen's waiting hands. The fullback with his teammates furnishing splendid interference, went around the left side for the touchdown.

The playing of Washington's line coupled with the backfield work of Rogers, were outstanding features, while Jones and Palm sparkled for Circleville.

SAYS TOO MANY TEETH EXTRACTED LOCAL MAN SPEAKS

(Special to The Herald.)

Cleveland, O., October 30.—The Ohio Osteopaths in convention here ended their sessions last night.

One of the outstanding addresses made to the Osteopaths was by Dr. E. R. Hoekins, Chicago, Illinois, research Radiographer of the A. T. Still Research Institute, who proved by screen shadow-graphs that the common practice of fat of wholesale tooth extraction is a crime against nature and an irreparable loss to the patient. "This cannot be shown by the X-Ray," he said, "Much confusion is made in reading the variations in X-Ray pictures showing what is supposed to be pus."

Dr. J. E. Bolmer, of Washington C. H., addressed the 250 Osteopaths on the theme of "Diet in Acidosis."

This Jury Says:

"It is our verdict that every farmer who raises live stock should provide his animals with comfortable, storm-proof shelter to protect them from the weather, promote their development, and make it possible for them to show maximum returns for their 'board and keep.'"

The jury is right, of course. Every practical farmer knows that live stock can be reared most economically and profitably only when properly housed in bad weather. And such shelter pays larger returns now than ever before.

Your Old Battery is Perhaps Repairable

If so, it will receive the proper treatment with us. Our repair work is being put to the test daily and is standing up extremely well, because we use nothing but the best of materials and the most approved methods.

Here's something we do in rebuilding: Every battery we re-insulate has genuine CEDAR Separators when it leaves our shop; no substitute is good enough. It is not necessary to explain to you how well cedar resists all elements of decay—just think what cedar shingles and cedar siding do on your house.

That's only one item of superior material; all others are on a par with it. Think about it.

The First Snow

Thursday evening the sun set in a golden sky free of clouds and every condition seemed to give promise of a clear frosty night.

Some time during the night the weather currents changed and brought up out of the west which, at sunset was so clear and promising, the rear guard of the storm which had moved off to the east. The rear guard forces of the storm were snow-laden clouds and for more than an hour at least, judging by the evidence on Friday morning, noiselessly the starry white flakes descended.

Now that we think of it, the moon as it rose up out of the eastern horizon on Thursday evening had a sly look as we recall it. Perhaps, way up there in the heavens, the October moon could look down over the western horizon and see the snow clouds coming up.

At any rate we have had our first taste of winter weather. It was not disagreeable. The blanket of snow soon disappeared from the ground and, by the time the sun was up above the eastern rim of the earth it was all gone save on the roofs and on the trees. They retained the evidence of the prank that nature played on us all while we slept. But if nature does no more serious harm with the weather currents than she did Thursday night we will not be very much inconvenienced.

Coal Supply Predicted

Chairman C. C. Marshall of the Ohio Utilities Commission, on Thursday evening, made some cheerful predictions regarding the coal supply.

Mr. Marshall's statement may not be expressed in the language most approved by literary critics but, so far as promise of relief is concerned, it goes right to the spot. "There'll be oodles of coal in Columbus and Ohio shortly," Chairman Marshall says.

Well there should be and, the truth about it is, it should have been here long ago. Owing to the fact that nature has taken exceptionally good care of her neglectful children we have not suffered any harm up to this time. The present cold snap tells us though, even if Mr. Marshall's promise is fulfilled, that we will have had a very narrow squeak.

The fact that the statement by the chairman of the utilities commission carries no promise of a reduction in the high price is, while disappointing, a sort of guarantee that the supply will be along just in the nick of time to keep us from freezing to death. It seems reasonable now that the coal barons have us in that condition of panic which makes us glad to get coal at any price, the supply will be sufficient to enable them to dole it out to retailers and consumers in quantities that will avert a tragedy and still not result in lower prices.

Conditions for coal supply, to sum it all up, are improved but there seems nothing upon which to hang a promise of reasonable prices and if there is too much complaint about price, the supply may again be menaced.

Guests and Reminders

Officials of the B. & O. railroad were business visitors in this city on Friday. They met at luncheon many business men of the city. Important subjects were discussed and the officials, by their visit, undoubtedly gained a more intimate knowledge of community needs and desires.

Quite naturally the subjects discussed related to shipping facilities—something that means more business and larger receipts for the railroad company and better opportunity for our producers of grain or live stock raisers and our manufacturers to get their products to market.

All of which, in its way, will be helpful to both the citizens and the railroad company, if the spirit of co-operation exists until results aimed at are attained.

It is fine to have had this conference on matters of business—revenue producers—because if the railroad didn't have large shipments out of Washington it couldn't afford to keep up the street crossings over their tracks.

That reminds us, by the way, that the snow has been "flying" here and the new crossings are not yet in on South Fayette street and South Main street. Maybe Mayor Dahl meant they would be put in before we had a deep snow but our recollection is that he didn't qualify his promise that we would have new crossings "before the snow flies."

POETRY FOR TODAY

WHAT ARE YOU DOING NOW?
It matters not if you lost the fight
And were badly beaten, too;
It matters not if you failed outright
In the things you tried to do;
It matters not if you toppled down
From the azure heights of blue, but
What are you doing now?

It matters not if your plans are foiled
And your hopes have fallen through;
It matters not if your chance was spoiled
With the gain almost in view;
It matters not if you missed the goal
Though you struggled brave and true, but
What are you doing now?

It matters not if your fortune's gone
And your fame has withered, too;
It matters not if a world's cold scorn
Is directed straight at you;
It matters not if the worst has come
Not a single dream come true, but
What are you doing now?

HERALD SCREEN TO GIVE RESULTS ELECTION NIGHT

Election returns in the nation, state and county will be flashed to the public on The Herald's big screen which will be installed on South Fayette street opposite The Herald building.

Special arrangements are being made to obtain returns as speedily as they are completed, and from early in the evening until late into the night the story of the battle of ballots will be written upon the Herald screen. Corps of workers will obtain the results in every precinct in Fayette county and The Associate Press will tell the story in the state and nation.

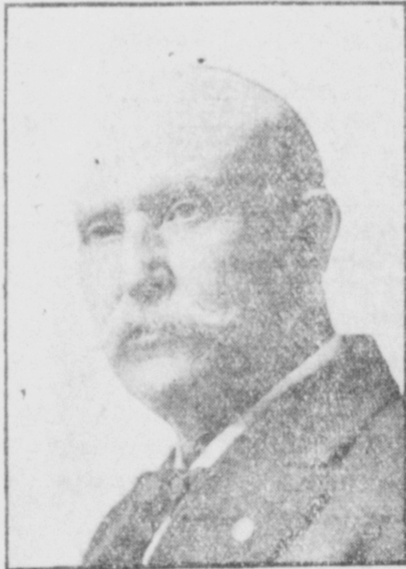

All persons interested in the returns, both men and women, are invited to consult the big screen. Citizens calling by telephone for results are kindly asked to be brief because of the great number of calls which will flood the office on election night, and the fact that the lines will be busy much of the time receiving reports from the 32 precincts in the county.

Because of the vast amount of work in collecting and compiling the returns, the Herald offices will be closed to the public, and friends of The Herald will confer a special favor by not endeavoring to gain admittance. The complete story will be told on the screen as obtained.

RANDOM NOTES

SOCIAL : PERSONAL MENTION : CLUBS

Mrs. Frank E. Haines and daughter, Mrs. Hays Dill, were charming hostesses at a Kensington of extremely pretty appointments Friday afternoon.

The Haines home on Washington Avenue, with its large connecting rooms and attractive sun parlor, provided ample accommodations as well as an effective background for nearly a hundred women, who found the afternoon so delightful that they lingered till darkness fell. Autumn's favorite flowers, the chrysanthemums, big, shaggy ones of white and yellow, blended harmoniously with the decorations of the reception room and filled a lovely basket in the solarium. Fall flowers also graced the living room, but the center embellishment of the dining room table was made up of crystal vases of pink and white carnations linked with crystal chains.

Late in the afternoon a particularly delicious collation was served. Mrs. Jean Nisley and Miss Daisy Cockerill assisting the hostesses.

Mrs. Haines looked exceedingly well in an embroidered white georgette blouse, with plaited skirt of blue and silver stripes, and Mrs. Dill very pretty in rose sweater, with white rolled collar and white satin skirt.

Mrs. Nisley was attractive in champagne georgette and Miss Cockerill in braided blue serge.

Among the guests were Mrs. Jack Taylor, London, Mrs. Fred C. Jones, Mrs. Tom Jones, Mrs. Harry Thomas, Mrs. Herbert Little, Jeffersonville; Mrs. Elmer Cockerill, Greenfield.

The older girls and boys of Miss Ethel Powell's piano class have organized a music club, giving to it the name of the MacDowell Club, after the noted American composer.

The first meeting was held Friday afternoon at Miss Powell's studio and was devoted to the study of Bach, the plan being to consecutively take up leading composers.

After an interesting program tea and wafers were served, Miss Mary Hannah Bliss pouring.

Mrs. Will Sadders dressed as a colored mammy was awarded first prize for the cleverest makeup, and Robert Mershon, as Uncle Sam the second prize.

A complete metamorphosis of the rooms had been made by the decorating committee by covering the furniture and draping the walls with sheets presenting a decidedly novel appearance. Cut-outs of black cats and witches on the white background added to the effectiveness. By the use of black, gold and lavender crepe paper, the light was softened into a deep purple. A pumpkin face illuminated the fortune telling booth.

In the basement there was a fish pond, and a booth where delicious pumpkin pie, hot coffee and ice cream were served. Fodder, pumpkin faces and quantities of litter sweet were artistically combined in decorating this booth.

The Halloween party given by Mrs. D. H. Rowe's Sunday School Class of the Grace Methodist Church was a very jolly affair with nearly eighty women, including class members and guests participating in the fun.

The table was beautifully decorated with festoons of yellow and black extending to the corners, and crystal sticks with yellow, candles and shades. Pumpkin faces were also used in lighting the room.

An appetizing lunch was served.

Mrs. Ray Snyder delightfully entertained with a Halloween party, Friday night in honor of Mr. McDunfee's birthday.

The evening was a most enjoyable one, after which delicious refreshments were served.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. John Van Gundy, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Upp, Mr. and Mrs. Ithamer Dunfee, Mrs. Walter Coulter, Mrs. Ben Bales, Mrs. Arthur Jones and daughter Zella and Mr. Will Dunfee.

Dancers were given a real treat at the American Legion Halloween dance at Memorial Hall Friday evening in the way of exceptionally good music provided by the University Jazz Quintet of Ohio State University, who will doubtless return here for other engagements during the winter season. Although the response was not so great as had been expected, the floor was comfortably filled with dancers throughout the evening.

The hall was tastefully decorated in Halloween colors, the scheme being carried out in an arrangement of orange and black streamers extending from the great chandelier in the center to all parts of the hall.

Halloween refreshments consisting of sandwiches, pumpkin pie, doughnuts and sweet cider were handed out from the kitchen when the guests responded to mess call sounded by a bugler.

A newly resurfaced and re waxed floor contributed to the pleasure of the evening.

Mrs. W. B. Lansing, of Van De-man avenue gave a children's party, Friday evening for her daughter Dorothy and son Robert, the guests eighteen children of the neighborhood.

The young guests had the happiest kind of a time after around of Halloween games the evening wound up with a taffy pull.

Pumpkin faceslighted the rooms. Mrs. Fritz Meiers assisted her sister in entertaining the children.

Complimentary to Mrs. Douglas Shoaff of Shelbyville, Ill., who is visiting her father, Dr. W. E. Ireland, Mrs. Harley T. Wilkin charmingly entertained three tables of Bridge, Friday afternoon.

After a spirited game, the guests were invited to the dining room, where an elaborate collation was served. The Fayette County Spotted Poland China Association has now thirty members and more coming in all the time.

At the Fayette County Fair this year we made the fair board hump to house the 117 head that we had on exhibition.

You will get a chance on November 8 at P. C. Harlow's sale to buy a gilt or a boar that you may be proud to compete for the premium that will be offered at the Fair in 1921. The sale commences at 1:30 so be there to get your share.

WOMAN SPEAKS ON THE LEAGUE

Declares That Republican Senators Inaugurated A "Campaign of Hatred," And Article Ten is "Simplest Thing Possible."

Declaring that it was the most solemn issue ever faced by any nation Mrs. Halsey Wilson, of New York City took the stand that America was approaching the greatest referendum in the coming election in League of Nations, when she spoke at Memorial Hall to a large audience Friday evening under the auspices of the Democratic Central Committee.

Mrs. Josephine Kerr, chairman of the Woman's Democratic Central Committee, presided over the meeting and introduced the speaker.

She prefaced her statements on the League with four causes for war, which she said, were the primary reasons for all wars in history. They were: greed among nations for more territory; standing armies; secret treaties; and the ability of monarchs to go to war over night.

She declared that these causes of war were in President Wilson's mind when he originated the idea of the present League and that it was for protection against these four causes that American boys were killed in France.

Mrs. Wilson recalled Gov. Calvin Coolidge's words of tribute to the president, "Before the League was dragged into the gutter and made a political issue." She then went on to give reasons "why the change of attitude towards the League issue."

She declared that she knew from facts that 45 Republican Senators had met behind closed doors and that they had ejected a newspaper reporter from the Washington Post but what they had done finally leaked out.

She declared that these Senators, knowing that if the League were adopted it meant sure victory for the Democratic party at the polls, declared themselves to inaugurate a "campaign of hatred" against the League.

"No greater tragedy was ever written on the pages of history" the speaker said.

Mrs. Wilson said that Article Ten, when thought out by a person willing to take a copy of the League of Nations and read it, was the simplest thing possible. "It is the backbone of the treaty" she asserted.

She warned the voters against thinking that American soldiers would be sent across the sea on every provocation and said to remember that the vote of the nine nations on the board must be unanimous.

The speaker illustrated what she termed the "tragedy of it all" in this nation not going into the league by citing that 45 countries had been asked to join. "Forty-three have joined" she said, America and Honduras being the only two remaining out.

Stereopticon slides illustrative of high points in the talks were shown at the completion of the speech.

Mrs. Wilson is secretary of the National suffrage association.

RECOVERS AUTO TAKE THIEVES

The Ford touring car stolen from the barn of Pearl Dewey in the Bethel church neighborhood on the Fayette-Madison county line has been recovered and the thieves arrested and lodged in the Madison county jail.

The two men charged with the theft of the machine are Foster Thomas, of Sedalia, and Elmer Moberly, of Griffin, Indiana.

It seems that the two men had been doing some painting for H. M. Campbell of Cooks and left their work some two days after the theft of the car. It developed that they had stored the machine at Sedalia during the two days.

Mr. Campbell had some inquiry and turned his information over to the Mt. Sterling Auto Protective Association, which had offered a reward of $300 for capture of the thieves, and the two men were soon in the hands of the Sheriff of Posey County, Indiana.

At least one of the men implicated is said to have been concerned in the theft of a large amount of clover seed in that community a few years ago.

MAIN HIGHWAYS ALL PASSABLE

In compiling the weekly road report by the Fayette County Automobile Club it was found that all main highways of the county leading to cities and places frequently visited by local motorists in Sunday tours were open to travel and that no difficult detours are encountered.

The Columbus pike above London, which received a coat of tar a few days ago, is now in excellent condition, and invites the motorists. All other route to the state capital are open. A detour is encountered at Xenia on the way to Dayton but this is not difficult. Routes to Chillicothe, Greenfield, Lebanon and other towns are without obstacles.

SPEAKERS ADDRESS LARGE RALLY AT NEW MARTINSBURG

Four auto loads of local Republicans accompanied Mrs. Mina Rowe Morris and Hon. Frank C. Parrett to New Martinsburg Friday evening where an enthusiastic meeting was held in the township house.

Lester Ellis presided over the meeting and introduced the speakers.

Mrs. Morris took the platform first and in an informal talk to the women who composed half the audience, she explained the necessity of women voting and why they should go to the polls on election day next Tuesday.

The principles of the Republican party were rehearsed and the speaker declared numerous reasons why the party appeals, specially to the women voters of the nation.

The main issues of the presidential campaign furnished ample material for an address by Hon. Frank C. Parrett during which he met with much applause.

One more meeting remains on the Republican schedule for Fayette county. At Manassas Monday evening a rally is to be addressed by Hon. Frank C. Parrett and Attorney C. A. Reid. The meeting will be held in the Marion township centralized school building.

The man who looks before he leaps never acquires much of a reputation as a leaper.

BROWNING IS UP FOR SECOND TERM

Popular Young County Commissioner, Has Good Record and Should Be Re-Elected.

John N. Browning was nominated and elected on the board of county commissioners of this county in 1918 and was again nominated last August by Fayette county Republicans. He hopes to be re-elected on November 2 and his countless friends throughout the county declare that he will be.

JOHN N. BROWNING

Mr. Browning resides some four or five miles northeast of this city and is one of the most highly regarded and conscientious young business men of the county. He has proven very popular with the voters whenever his name has been presented and the coming election promises equally well for him.

He has a good record in the office of county commissioner and his ability, integrity and industry entitle him to the full support of the voters.

GET OUT OF THE RUT

The head of the family who in this day and age of progress and enlightenment determines to stay in the rut and refuses to listen to anything new is guilty of criminal neglect. Because our forefathers used tallow dips at night, is that any reason why you should not use electric light now? Because your ancestors were satisfied to ride in horse cars, is that any reason why now you should refuse to travel in an electric car or declare that you will never ride in an automobile? Because your ancestors used to dope themselves with poisonous drugs which treated the effect and did not worry about the cause, is that any reason why you should refuse to listen to the merits of the great Science of Chiropractic? Get out of the rut and we will hazard a guess that you will never again return to it. All modern inventions were in their infancy declared to be impossible. The most ignorant man is he who will not be taught.

The American citizen is a free man, he will not be forced to do anything. He also has the reputation of being progressive. Live up to that reputation. Be progressive in the matter of health as you are in matters that touch your pocket book. Health is the rightful inheritance of every man. Are you, a free American citizen, going to calmly allow an obsolete science to rob you of that heritage? If you are watering your garden by means of a hose and some mischievous urchin places a heavy weight on it shutting off the flow of water you wouldn't be so foolish as to pour some drugs thru the hose with the expectancy that they would relieve the pressure. Of course not. You would immediately relieve the pressure by taking away the weight. And that is just what the Chiropractors do. They find that the cause of your trouble is a pressure which they immediately relieve by Chiropractic adjustments, and with the change the vital force flows uninterrupted, function is restored and you are happy and healthy.

Just try it the next time you do not feel well and you will soon become a convert to the wonderful science of Chiropractic.

To the Voters of Fayette County:

Finding that it will be impossible, on account of my duties in the office, to see many of the voters before election day, I have taken this method of calling your attention to my candidacy for Probate Judge.

I have always believed and still believe in the wholesome principles upon which the law providing that Judges shall be voted for on a non-partisan judicial ticket is based, and have this year as I did in my first campaign, conformed to those principles and have not sought political nomination.

A candidate for the office of Probate Judge of this County should have qualifications to offer the voter, other than that he belongs to a great political party.

I am asking your support solely on my official record, of four and one-half years, as Probate and Juvenile Judge and if you approve of it say so to your neighbor.

NOTICE!

To The Taxpayers and Renters of Property:

The taxes in this city in 1918 were 15 mills, or 1.50%. The taxes in this city in 1919 were 15.50 mills, or 1.55%.

The taxes in this city in 1920 will be 18 mills, or 1.80%.

We are asked to vote next Tuesday for an increase of two mills, making 20 mills, or 2% on every dollar for which property is appraised.

In many cases property is appraised for more money than it will bring on the market.

In the event that this increase in taxation is carried, it will mean that taxes will be ONE-THIRD more than in 1918 and may also mean increased rents in this city.

RUNAWAY GIRL IS SENT HOME TO GREENFIELD

Tells Conflicting Story
While Detained in This City.

D. L. L. Brock picked up a poorly dressed girl about sixteen years of age coming towards Washington on foot two or three miles below Good Hope Thursday and brought her to this city in his automobile.

She did not answer questions satisfactorily and was turned over to Miss Mary Robinson, probation officer. There she refused to tell her name until six o'clock Thursday evening when she divulged that her home was on Mirabeau street, near the over-head bridge.

As it happens there is but one Mirabeau street in the United States and that is in Greenfield and the authorities happened to know this. Probate Judge Rell G. Allen got in touch with the Greenfield authorities and arranged to send her home on the D. T. & L. The Greenfield Chief of Police met her at the station.

Miss Robinson notified the Secretary of the Greenfield Red Cross and that official promised to make an investigation into the home life of the girl.

Before she left the girl confessed that her name was Edith McGee, 16, and that her father and mother are both dead. She said she started to school Thursday morning and then decided to run off and make her own living. Miss Robinson states that it was necessary to send the girl home as soon as possible and follow later with investigation because there was no place to keep her.

WOMEN NEED NOT STAND IT

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Surely Removes Suffering and Pain. Here is Proof.

St. Paul, Neb.—"I suffered with periodical pain for about four years so that I was unable to do my work at times. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took it. It soon stopped all my suffering so that I am now feeling fine in every way. I recommend my medicine to my friends who have similar troubles. You may publish this letter for the benefit of other women."—Mrs. WILL THOMAS, St. Paul, Neb.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

For forty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who now are free from suffering by its use.

WHAT NEW VOTERS WILL FIND WHEN THEY GO TO POLLS

This is for the information of new voters, and particularly women, comparatively few of whom have ever been inside a voting booth, and who naturally may wonder as to just what is expected of the person appearing to vote for the first time.

The voter walks into the room where the voting is done, and if not known to the clerk, he or she will ask for the voter's name, street and number. The clerk then writes the voter's name upon the various ballot stubs, tears off the ballots and leaves the stub on file.

The ballots are handed to the voter who walks to one of the curtained booths and enters. Pencil will be found to mark the ballot as desired, and instructions are posted in each booth to help those who may be in doubt about marking their ballots.

When the ballots are handed to the voter they are folded, and after being marked by the voter, they are to be folded in the same manner, and handed to one of the presiding officials, who drops them into the ballot box in the presence of the voter. In this way the manner in which the voter marks his or her ballot is secret.

EVERSHARP

The name is on the pencil

Eversharp is absolutely unique, the pencil that is always sharp yet never sharpened, always ready for smooth, easy writing, and beautifully made for lifelong service. Eversharp prices, with 18 inches of Eversharp Leads, are $1 up.

and when the ballot box is opened, every ballot appears without the name of the voter.

It is strictly against the election laws for anyone to solicit a vote in the room where the voting is done, or within the flag-marked limits near the voting place. No official asks the voter's politics but gives the same ballots to voters of all parties. No political arguments are tolerated in the voting places.

HALLOWE'EN ORDER IN NEARBY CITY

Wilmington believes in holding Halloween pranks down to a minimum, and not permit soap writing on windows and other kinds of stunts over a period of about one week, as now being done in this city.

The order of the Wilmington Mayor follows:

"No soap writing of obscene words or pictures.

"No wandering around town with shelled corn.

"No unseemly conduct by youngsters or grown-ups.

"If children are caught running around and soap writing on windows and on automobiles, they will be arrested and punished, and the warning is given to the parents to see that they confine their celebrations of Halloween to other lines of amusement.

"This is final and authoritative. "Pranks, that carry with them destruction of property and obscenity, are under the ban.

"Watch your step!"

WHO WANTS THE SALOON BACK?

The Liquor Interests, at great expense, are asking you to vote NO on House Bill No. 620. WHY? Because they want to prevent the enforcement of Prohibition in Ohio, and to bring back the saloon with all its debauching evils. If by your votes you enable them to win in this election, they will next attempt to legalize the sale of beer and wine, so that children at a soda fountain may have their choice between these milder forms of booze and a strawberry soda.

Your Opportunity, Women!!

For more than fifty years the Liquor Interests have fought Prohibition and Woman Suffrage. Now voters, Men and Women, Patriots, arise in your might, and with your ballot smite this arch enemy of Manhood, Womanhood and Childhood. Protect Homes and Children from this deadly enemy, by placing your X before the Yes on House Bill No. 620, as shown in Sample Ballot herewith.

MOTHERS and DAUGHTERS, start a CHAIN of VOTERS for the Bill. PERSONAL WORK alone can win this fight. Speak to your neighbors. Call your friends by phone. Ask them to do the same in turn. Follow this page through until every voter in Hamilton County has been reached and the victory will be ours.
